Score Analysis

CEFR Assessment Profile

Cambridge English Scale · Skills breakdown

The Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) is a standardised grading system aiming to validate language ability.

Section Skill Analysis

Capabilities and Skills

Understanding the skills

Section 1: Reading Total Score: 66.7/100

CEFR: A2 Elementary

Candidate understands simple texts on familiar topics when the language is straightforward. Longer or less predictable material will cause difficulty.

Reading

Reading reflects the ability to understand written English in everyday and workplace situations. The score reflects how well a candidate can make sense of what they read — both what is directly stated and what is implied — assessed through progressively challenging questions across multiple proficiency levels.

Section 2: Listening Total Score: 50.0/100

CEFR: BelowA2 Beginner

Candidate has not yet demonstrated sufficient comprehension to follow simple spoken exchanges on familiar topics consistently, even when speech is slow and clear. At this level, there is not enough demonstrated ability to distinguish between different stages of beginner proficiency.

Listening

Listening reflects the ability to follow and understand spoken English in everyday and workplace situations. The score reflects how well a candidate can pick up on key information and details, assessed through progressively challenging questions across multiple proficiency levels.

Section 3: Writing Total Score: 70.7/100

CEFR: B2 Upper-intermediate

The text uses a good range of vocabulary & the formulation varies to avoid repetition. The topic is described using mostly simple language structures and some complex grammatical forms without diversions.

Writing

Writing reflects the ability to understand a given prompt and produce a written response that is clear, organised, and fit for purpose. The score is based on the ability to develop ideas coherently, use vocabulary and grammar accurately, and maintain orthographic control across formats.
